State Officials Assist Ammer In Reviving Safety Group

Top state officials prepared today to give special attention to Pickaway County's increasing traffic fatality toll as Prosecutor William Ammer launched a simultaneous move to pump new life into the district's safety committee.

With eight traffic deaths already listed for the county since Jan. 1, the 1955 toll is running nearly four times as great as for the corresponding period for last year.

Director U. C. Felty, of the Department of Highway Safety, has pointed out that the local safety committee should lead whatever steps can be taken to check the sharp increase.

State Patrol Sgt. J. A. Wolfe, representing Felty, conferred with Ammer in Circleville Friday. Wolfe was accompanied here by Robert Shinn, of the National Safety Council.

"WE CAME HERE to offer whatever assistance we can give Circleville and Pickaway County," Wolfe said. "Mr. Felty instructed me to come here and determine just what the situation is, preparatory to any action we can take in cooperation with the local authorities."

"Pickaway County certainly seems to have a real problem on its hands in the light of your sudden gain in traffic deaths," Wolfe continued. "Mr. Felty wants to emphasize that all the help of his department is at your disposal."

(The district's rising death toll was brought to Felty's attention a week ago when The Herald called his Columbus office. Felty promised immediate action in looking into the situation here.)

Wolfe said he would personally assist Ammer and other district officials in reviving the local safety committee. The group was first organized by Ammer as part of a nationwide highway safety drive launched by President Eisenhower's own safety committee in the nation's capital.

THE NATIONAL program was intended to move into coordinated action through state and local levels, but the Pickaway County group has been virtually stalled for several months.

Ammer said the main reason why the local group has stalled has been due to the lack of a permanent chairman. Ammer took the job temporarily but gave it up due to the press of work from his office.

He said he understood the group was to have chosen a permanent leader but did not do so.

Ammer could not be reached Saturday morning for further comment. Earlier, he had mentioned that the committee originally had been made up of 40 persons from throughout the county.

Rash Of Strikes Starts To Spread

New England Textile Aides Out; Dixie Phone, Rail Tiffs Boiling

By The Associated Press
Another major strike darkened the nation's labor front today as some 25,000 textile workers in four New England states struck in a dispute over wages.

New violence and damage was reported in the two big continuing strikes in the South. These two costly walkouts, which started March 14, affect thousands of telephone and railroad workers as well as some related industries.

The CIO Textile Workers Union struck in 23 cotton textile mills in Maine, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Vermont. The workers stayed away in support of demands for a new contract and refused to take a 10 cents an hour cut in wages and fringe benefits.

Some 37 other mills have agreed to renew contracts. The workers now receive an average of $1.30 an hour. The minimum is $1.09½. The new violence was reported in the strike by about 25,000 non-operating employees of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad.

MEANWHILE, national Mediation Board members in Washington continued efforts to end the walkout. But about 4,000 additional L&N workers planned to strike Monday.

The derailment of a passenger train near Nashville, Tenn., last night, in which 30 passengers were shaken up, was called sabotage by a rail official.

Nine cars of the northbound Dixie Flyer of the strike - crippled Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad were derailed.

Gov. Frank Clement of Alabama ordered the state's law enforcement agencies to assist in the investigation of the derailment.

More damage also was reported in connection with the walkout by CIO Communications Workers of America against the Southern Bell Telephone Co. in nine states.

An undetermined number of the 50,000 union-eligible employees are taking part in the strike, which started in nine Southern states after failure to agree on a new contract.

Nearly 25,000 CIO United Steelworkers in Birmingham ended their one-day strike in sympathy with the CWA walkout.

A 70-pair cable between Atlanta and Birmingham was cut yesterday and a cable between Atlanta and Rome, Ga., a long distance cable linking Miami, Fla., with Key West, Fla., and Havana, Cuba, was cut.

The Southern Bell strike has been marked by mob rioting and the dynamiting, cutting and shooting of cables. The CWA has maintained it was not responsible.

In another labor development, a wildcat walkout of crewmen of the South Buffalo Railway at Buffalo, N. Y., threatened the operation of the Bethlehem Lackawanna plant and the Ford Motor Co. stamping plant. The Bethlehem plant employs 17,500 and Ford 4,600.

Most Of Nation's Weather Is Mild

CHICAGO (AP)—Skies were cloudy and rain fell in some areas in the northern half of the country today but pleasant, mild spring weather prevailed in most other sections.

Rain fell in western parts of Washington and Oregon and in northern Minnesota. Rain or drizzle was reported in sections of New York, Pennsylvania and New England. Fog covered much of Wisconsin and upper Michigan with visibility in some areas reduced to a quarter of a mile.

It was cooler in the Northern Rockies and Northern Plains with temperatures in the 20s and 30s. But there was warming in the Mississippi Valley.

Dems Seek Party Harmony, Plan Honors For Rayburn

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democrats strove for party harmony today as they got ready to honor House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas at a $100-a-plate dinner.

With the party's top attractions on hand to demonstrate unity at the dinner, an advisory group moved to bury the troublesome "loyalty oath" issue that split the 1952 nominating convention.

Former National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell called the advisory group together to pass on recommendations for adoption of new rules under which most Democrats could bolt the party presidential ticket without the threat of party discipline.

National Chairman Paul M. Butler said he expected the advisory group to reach a final decision of the proposed new rules. He said the group's report would be submitted to the national committee at its next meeting, scheduled for next September in Chicago.

THE PROPOSED rules changes, generally interpreted as a bid to avoid another possible Dixie rebellion at the 1956 convention, would assign state organizations the primary responsibility for getting names of the party nominees on their state ballots.

India, Red China, Egypt And Burma Chided For Preliminary Powwow

BANDUNG, Indonesia (AP)—Some delegates to the Asian-African conference, a mammoth diplomatic show of 29 nations opening here Monday, wonder whether the stars are writing the script to please themselves.

They are questioning the purpose of the "little Bandung" conference held yesterday in Rangoon by Indian Prime Minister Nehru, Red China's Chou En-lai, Abdel Gamal Nasser of Egypt and Burmese Premier U Nu.

The four premiers held two sessions last night, one before and one after a banquet. There was no hint of what they discussed although presumably it concerned the conference here.

Today all four of the "big boys" are flying to Indonesia. Chou alone with his fellow delegates from Peiping, and Nehru, Nasser and U Nu in another Air India international plane.

"What did they have to talk about that we couldn't all hear?" demanded an Arab delegate among the early arrivals in Bandung.

His question was echoed repeatedly in hotel lobbies here while the delegates (there will be 600 to 1,000 in all) were getting acquainted.

NO ONE SEEMED to know the subjects under discussion at Rangoon and most were frankly concerned by what appeared to some to be a control caucus.

Egyptian delegates who arrived ahead of Nasser said it was Nehru who took the initiative in arranging the Egyptian leader's stop in New Delhi and the preconference meeting with Chou in Burma.

Red China's premier was taking no chances on his journey to Bandung. He slipped out of Rangoon on his chartered Indian Skyman ahead of Nehru, Nasser and U Nu. The plane had been under constant guard during its 36 hours in Rangoon and not even airport officials were permitted near.

Chou had refused the refueling facilities of the British-owned Burma Oil Co. His aircraft had (Continued on Page Two)

Solons Disagree Sharply On Refugee Issue

Watkins Raps Walter For Saying Nation's Program Is 'Phony'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), who helped pilot the Eisenhower administration's Refugee Relief Act through Congress, today sharply disputed the contention of Rep. Walter (D-Pa.) that it is a "phony."

Walter so described the 1953 act yesterday in disclosing to Senate investigators that he had written to Secretary of State Dulles March 14 urging that Edward Corsi be dropped as a special adviser on refugee problems.

Walter, co-author of the nation's basic immigration law, used the term "phony" in giving a Senate judiciary subcommittee his opinion of an act which calls for the admission of 214,000 nonquota immigrants by the end of next year. So far, 1,044 have been admitted.

The Pennsylvania said Democratic lawmakers were given "little opportunity" to offer suggestions when the bill was passed by a Republican-controlled Congress.

"To me it's not any phony," said Watkins, who was chief Senate sponsor of the legislation. "It can work and I think we'll get all these people over here."

THE SUBCOMMITTEE is trying to find out how the refugee immigration program is working. There have been complaints it is moving too slowly. Corsi charged after his ouster that an "intolerant minority" in Congress and the taged" the program.

The subcommittee has tried to skirt the Corsi ouster row, but Walter brought the matter to the fore when he read a "strictly confidential" letter to Dulles in which the Pennsylvania referred to Corsi, a veteran Republican office holder in New York State, as "a person of inferior judgment."

Walter also spoke in his letter of Corsi's "association with highly objectionable groups and organizations, branded as subversive by the attorney general, and his neglect to resign from such organizations after their true nature had become a matter of common knowledge."

Corsi has vigorously denied such charges by Walter in the past and Secretary Dulles said this week that Corsi was in no way a security risk.

In testimony yesterday Security Chief Scott McLeod said he agreed with Dulles' decision to fire Corsi because he said Corsi was "free-wheeling all over the place without the authority or responsibility for decisions." But McLeod admitted he had recommended to Dulles that Corsi be brought in to help in the refugee program.

Honors For Salk Piling Up As Nation Pays Its Homage

By The Associated Press
A grateful America today was paying homage to the man who conquered the dread disease of polio.

A huge welcome waits Dr. Jonas E. Salk when he returns today to Pittsburgh, where he did his research.

In other parts of the nation spontaneously formed groups rallied to express their thanks to the Pittsburgh University scientist.

Salk, 40, gets no royalties for his work; his discovery is not patented. It is a property of the American people whose "dimes" made it possible.

Ideas to form "Funds for Salk" mushroomed throughout the country as one town followed another. In Richmond, Va., M. B. Mc-

Members of Congress and various state legislatures have called for measures to commemorate Salk and his discovery.

Organizations and foreign countries announced awards of medals to the scientist.

Stack Of Traffic Violations Found

CLEVELAND (AP)—Two policemen were waiting last night when Lennie Green, 44, returned to his car from a grocery. Through questions they learned his driver's license had been suspended.

At Central Station they found he had been charged previously with 29 traffic violations. To the 29, they added three more: Jaywalking, parking in a bus stop, and driving without a license.

Reynolds, a sales engineer, proposed a fund of thanks for Salk and immediately sent a dollar for each of the three members of his family to Salk.

HIS IDEA was picked up by a New York newspaper which proposed editorially a three-month campaign asking its readers to mail dollar contributions to a Salk fund.

And in Mount Vernon, Ill., the Junior Chamber of Commerce mailed an $85 thank you gift, a dollar for each of its members. There were many others who expressed thanks to the scientist in money gifts or telegrams.

In An Arbor, Mich., where the vaccine evaluation took place, a television station has started a "Send Salk a Dime" drive. Almost immediately, responses started to pour in.

Members of Congress and various state legislatures have called for measures to commemorate Salk and his discovery.

Office Aide Punches Little Cards, Mixes Up Big Batches Of Concrete

CLEVELAND (AP)—A workman far removed from dust and grime mixed huge batches of various kinds of concrete today, merely by punching keys on a business machine.

Leonard Palcisko, an employee of Cleveland Builders Supply Co., did not bend his back to a shovel. Aside from punching the keys, his only physical labor was lifting little cards from the machine into a slot and later pushing a button.

The firm's new million dollar plant did all the rest. Electronic machines, prompted by the holes in the cards, measured out the proper amounts of cement, water, sand and gravel into a six-cubic-yard mixer. When Palcisko pressed the button concrete was dumped into a waiting ready-mix truck.

The company is taking all that one step further as soon as possible, equipping its 62 trucks with radio-telephone sets to speed service.

Jay Ehle, CBS vice president, said the new plant was opened experimentally last weekend. He said mixes were going to customers today.

Aside from Palcisko, only three other men are needed to run the plant—a belt conveyor operator, a crane operator and a plant engineer. Ehle says their main duties are to keep bins filled with the various ingredients so that they can be tapped when Palcisko slips his cards into the slot.

Cement dumped from railroad cars is carried to a bin by a belt. Sand and gravel dumped by lake freighters is also carried to bins by a conveyor belt.

Since most customers reorder the same kinds of concrete, Ehle predicted the cards would be used over and over again. Eventually he expects the firm will keep about 2,000 cards on hand at all times.

When the customer places an order, Palcisko will just pull out the proper card and slide it into the machine.

The new plant could be advertised as providing "slot machine" cement or cement that is "untouched by human hands."

British Set For Election

Eden Schedules Poll For Next May 26

LONDON (AP)—Britain's general election next month may well be fought around two main issues, the nation's economic health and her role in East-West tensions.

The battleground has been shaping up for months in Parliament and press. It was thrown into sharp focus last night after Prime Minister Anthony Eden called elections for May 26.

Leaders of the opposition Labor Party quickly declared that Eden's 10-day-old government was afraid to delay the election because economic conditions showed signs of worsening.

And there was renewed Laborite criticism because the Conservative government has not seen fit until now to press for big power talks on world problems.

Eden went on the air last night to make his terse announcement of the election date which had been widely forecast. He told the nation "uncertainty at home and about the political future is bad for our influence in world affairs, bad for trade and unsettling in many ways."

HE SAID Parliament would be dissolved May 6.

Hugh Gaitskell, former Laborite chancellor of the exchequer, declared the "real reason" for an early election was government concern over the economic situation.

"They fear a trade deficit which developed in the second half of 1954 is getting worse," he said.

The Labor Party, sparked by Clement Attlee, has pressed for immediate big power talks on the hydrogen bomb, disarmament and other world problems.

Both Churchill and Eden took the stand that the Paris agreements to rearm West Germany must be adopted prior to any high level Big Four conference.

Stock Market Reaches New Record High

NEW YORK (AP)—A new record high mark was reached this week by the stock market. That completes the recovery from the major March break.

The market now has racked up eight straight advances, an unusually long string, with the last four establishing new highs.

Almost all of the news this week favored a rise. There was adverse news, of course, but this was insulated and confined to a limited area of the market.

It was last March 4 that the market reached a new top with the Associated Press average of 60 stocks at $162.60. Right after that, it tumbled for six days in a major reaction. It took nearly five weeks of steady recovery to overcome the effects of that deep drop. At the end of this week the AP average stood at $164.80, a new record high.

The fact that the market was able to rise out of the depths with continuous strength to new highs doesn't mean that it can keep on going at the same rate, brokers pointed out. When the market starts probing into uncharted territory as it is now, it immediately becomes vulnerable to reaction.

Of course, the market has a solid platform of excellent business on which to stand.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), who helped pilot the Eisenhower administration's Refugee Relief Act through Congress, today sharply disputed the contention of Rep. Walter (D-Pa.) that it is a "phony."

Walter so described the 1953 act yesterday in disclosing to Senate investigators that he had written to Secretary of State Dulles March 14 urging that Edward Corsi be dropped as a special adviser on refugee problems.

Walter, co-author of the nation's basic immigration law, used the term "phony" in giving a Senate judiciary subcommittee his opinion of an act which calls for the admission of 214,000 nonquota immigrants by the end of next year. So far, 1,044 have been admitted.

The Pennsylvania said Democratic lawmakers were given "little opportunity" to offer suggestions when the bill was passed by a Republican-controlled Congress.

"To me it's not any phony," said Watkins, who was chief Senate sponsor of the legislation. "It can work and I think we'll get all these people over here."

THE SUBCOMMITTEE is trying to find out how the refugee immigration program is working. There have been complaints it is moving too slowly. Corsi charged after his ouster that an "intolerant minority" in Congress and the tagged "the program."

The subcommittee has tried to skirt the Corsi ouster row, but Walter brought the matter to the fore when he read a "strictly confidential" letter to Dulles in which the Pennsylvania referred to Corsi, a veteran Republican office holder in New York State, as "a person of inferior judgment."

Walter also spoke in his letter of Corsi's "association with highly objectionable groups and organizations, branded as subversive by the attorney general, and his neglect to resign from such organizations after their true nature had become a matter of common knowledge."

Corsi has vigorously denied such charges by Walter in the past and Secretary Dulles said this week that Corsi was in no way a security risk.

In testimony yesterday Security Chief Scott McLeod said he agreed with Dulles' decision to fire Corsi because he said Corsi was "free-wheeling all over the place without the authority or responsibility for decisions." But McLeod admitted he had recommended to Dulles that Corsi be brought in to help in the refugee program.

Honors For Salk Piling Up As Nation Pays Its Homage

By The Associated Press
A grateful America today was paying homage to the man who conquered the dread disease of polio.

A huge welcome waits Dr. Jonas E. Salk when he returns today to Pittsburgh, where he did his research.

In other parts of the nation spontaneously formed groups rallied to express their thanks to the Pittsburgh University scientist.

Salk, 40, gets no royalties for his work; his discovery is not patented. It is a property of the American people whose "dimes" made it possible.

Ideas to form "Funds for Salk" mushroomed throughout the country as one town followed another. In Richmond, Va., M. B. Mc-

Innkeeper Guilty In Bribery Case

CLEVELAND (AP)—Attorneys for George Berry, 44, Cleveland tavern operator, said they would appeal his conviction yesterday on a charge of paying a $300 bribe to a state liquor agent.

He was released on $2,000 appeal bond by Common Pleas Judge Parker Fulton, who found him guilty. He had waived a jury trial. Judge Fulton sentenced him to one-to-10 years in Ohio Penitentiary. A liquor agent, LeRoy Phillips, goes on trial Monday for accepting the bribe.

Stack Of Traffic Violations Found

CLEVELAND (AP)—Two policemen were waiting last night when Lennie Green, 44, returned to his car from a grocery. Through questions they learned his driver's license had been suspended.

At Central Station they found he had been charged previously with 29 traffic violations. To the 29, they added three more: Jaywalking, parking in a bus stop, and driving without a license.

Chillicothe VA Hospital Plans Services For Visitors May 1

Services for all denominations will be held at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Chillicothe during the observance of Hospital Day Sunday, May 1.

An elaborate program for that day is being arranged at the institution, a mental hospital which cares for and gives treatment to 2,100 veteran patients. The veterans now under treatment range from those of the Spanish-American to the Korean wars.

As May 1 also marks the beginning of National Mental Health week, special invitations are being extended to the patients' immediate families and friends. The public is invited to join in spiritual fellowship with other hospitalized veterans.

High Mass for Roman Catholic patients and their visitors will be offered by the Reverend Fr. Francis J. Connor, Catholic chaplain, at 9 a. m. in the recreation hall. The National Catholic Community Service has arranged with the Xavier Male Chorus of Columbus to furnish the choir for this occasion. The new Blessed Sacrament Oratory furnished by the State Council Knights of Columbus will be opened for inspection both morning and afternoon of that date.

Rabbi Nathan Zelizer, a Columbuseite, is a semi-monthly hospital visitor, who is planning Hospital Day services to be held at 9:30 a. m. in the Jewish Chapel. Passover and other holidays are faithfully observed at the hospital. Prominent Columbus Jewish organizations assist in these observances.

Chaplain Norman B. Emch will preach and conduct the general Protestant service at 10 a. m. in the recreation hall. Special music will be furnished by the Women's Chorus of Capital University from Columbus, Ohio. Guests for the occasion will be the Knights Templar of Central Ohio.

Special services such as Good Friday, Easter, Christmas and other religious events are usually supplemented with special music by organizations from surrounding communities. The patients are able choir participants.

Dr. H. H. Botts, hospital manager, says: "Religion at this institution is one of the most beneficial therapies in restoring patients to a normal way of life. The goal of mental health can be simply stated—a good life well lived. And this is equally the goal of religion."

"Fellowship under God, the collective seeking of religion's highest goals, is of great value in mental health. A sense of belonging that is genuine, worship that is sincere and intelligent, service that is worthy—all these sustain the mind of a disturbed person."

Calvary EUB Fights Attendance Slump

An Easter-to-Pentecost "Attendance Crusade" will be launched Sunday morning in the Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church and Sunday Church School. The Attendance Crusade has been designed to attack the traditional "post-Easter slump" in attendance which is experienced in most churches. Attendance goals have been outlined for the period by a planning committee for the Crusade.

The Rev. James B. Recob, pastor of Calvary Church, plans to speak Sunday on the topic, "Dry Spells." Clark Zwyer, assistant Sunday church school superintendent, will assist the pastor during the 9 a. m. worship period, leading the congregation in the call to worship and the hymns.

Supper Planned

The Mary Martha Sunday School Class at Commercial Point will hold a variety supper April 29 in the Scioto Township School cafeteria.

Ascension Sunday Will Be Observed By Presbyterians

Ascension Sunday will be observed at the Presbyterian Church during the 10:30 a. m. hour of worship. The theme will be, "A New Earth."

The Rev. Donald E. Mitchell will develop the sermon from the text in Isaiah 66:22 and from the Ascension Scripture in the Gospel of St. Luke, 24:44-53.

The choir will present a soprano solo number by Miss Donna Mitchell. She will sing, by request, Mozart's "Alleluia." The choir will also assist the congregation in singing the Ascension Hymn, "Hail The Day." Also, they will present, "Jerusalem, The Golden" and "Hark, Hark My Soul."

Mrs. Clark Will directs the music; Mrs. Theodore L. Huston presides at the console of the organ and will play Edmundson's "Pastorale," "Cradle Song," by Czerny, and "Diggle's 'Song of Triumph'."

New members will be received during the worship. An hour of Bible study will precede the worship, classes for all ages meeting at 9:30 a. m. with their teachers. In the evening, the Geneva Fellowship Couples Club will hold its regular meeting at 8 p. m. in the Social Rooms, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Hines presiding.

All Presbyterian women of Columbus Presbyterian will meet at the Overbrook Presbyterian Church, 4131 N. High St., Columbus, Monday morning at 10. Miss Florence Lunby, a National Missions secretary, will be the main speaker. Mrs. Melvin Patterson is in charge of transportation.

'Dangers To Soul' Topic At First EUB

Morning worship in the First Evangelical United Brethren Church Sunday, at 9:30, includes a sermon by the pastor, the Rev. O. F. Gibbs, on, "Some Dangers To The Soul."

Bible Words To Live By

ROMANS 8:38,39—"I am sure that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor things present, nor things to come, nor powers, nor height, nor depth, nor anything else in all creation, will be able to separate us from the love of God in Christ Jesus, our Lord." (RSV).

The Apostle Paul runs the gamut, here, in his listing of the possible things that can happen to a person in his lifetime. Paul, in his own lifetime, had experienced many more hardships—much more persecution—than most of us have ever experienced, or will ever experience, in our lives: imprisonments, beatings with lashes and rods, stoning, shipwrecks, in hunger and thirst, in danger from robbers and false brethren. This statement was, then, no idle sentence to fill up a letter. It was a statement of personal faith—a faith that had been tried and tested over and over again in the fires of adversity. It was this solid, steadfast, tried faith, upon which Paul had built his Christian life, that enabled him to write to the church at Ephesus, from his Roman prison, near the end of his life: "always and for everything giving thanks in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ to God the Father."

It was this vital, tested, personal faith in the living God of Jesus Christ that alone can give us the security, the peace of mind and soul, the hope that we so desperately need in this great hour of testing, when world tensions are so acute, and the weapons of warfare are so horrible. Let us never forget that the love of God in Christ is stronger than any power in the world; and that we may abide in that everlasting power and love and security by faith, through Jesus Christ, who lived, and died, and rose again, and lives eternally "at the right hand of God, the Father," that through him, all men may live in eternal security.

The Rev. Hollis W. Hastings
Lisbon and Bath
Congregational Churches, N. H.

ROMANS 15:3—"Even Christ pleased not himself."

In the 38 years which have elapsed since I preached my first sermon to a real congregation, I have never felt quite ready or able to preach on the above text.

I think I could give a reasonably sound exposition of the text and background of it, but its five words have always seemed to me to carry implications which are among the most far-reaching of the whole New Testament.

For one thing, they put Christ in our class, since we never can always do just what we please. For another, they suggest the real humanity of Christ—a quality we forget or minimize in emphasizing His divinity. The sentence implies, moreover, that there were times when His own immediate desires had to be subordinated to some larger good and to the ultimate will of God.

These five words are exactly in key with such passages as Philippians 2:5-8, Hebrews 2:9-10, 17-18, and 4:15-16. They all indicate that when St. John 1:14 asserts that "the Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us," we were being assured that, once in the course of human history, in the fullest and most real sense the eternal and infinite God shared this fleeting, limited and troubled human life of ours.

GOD at home

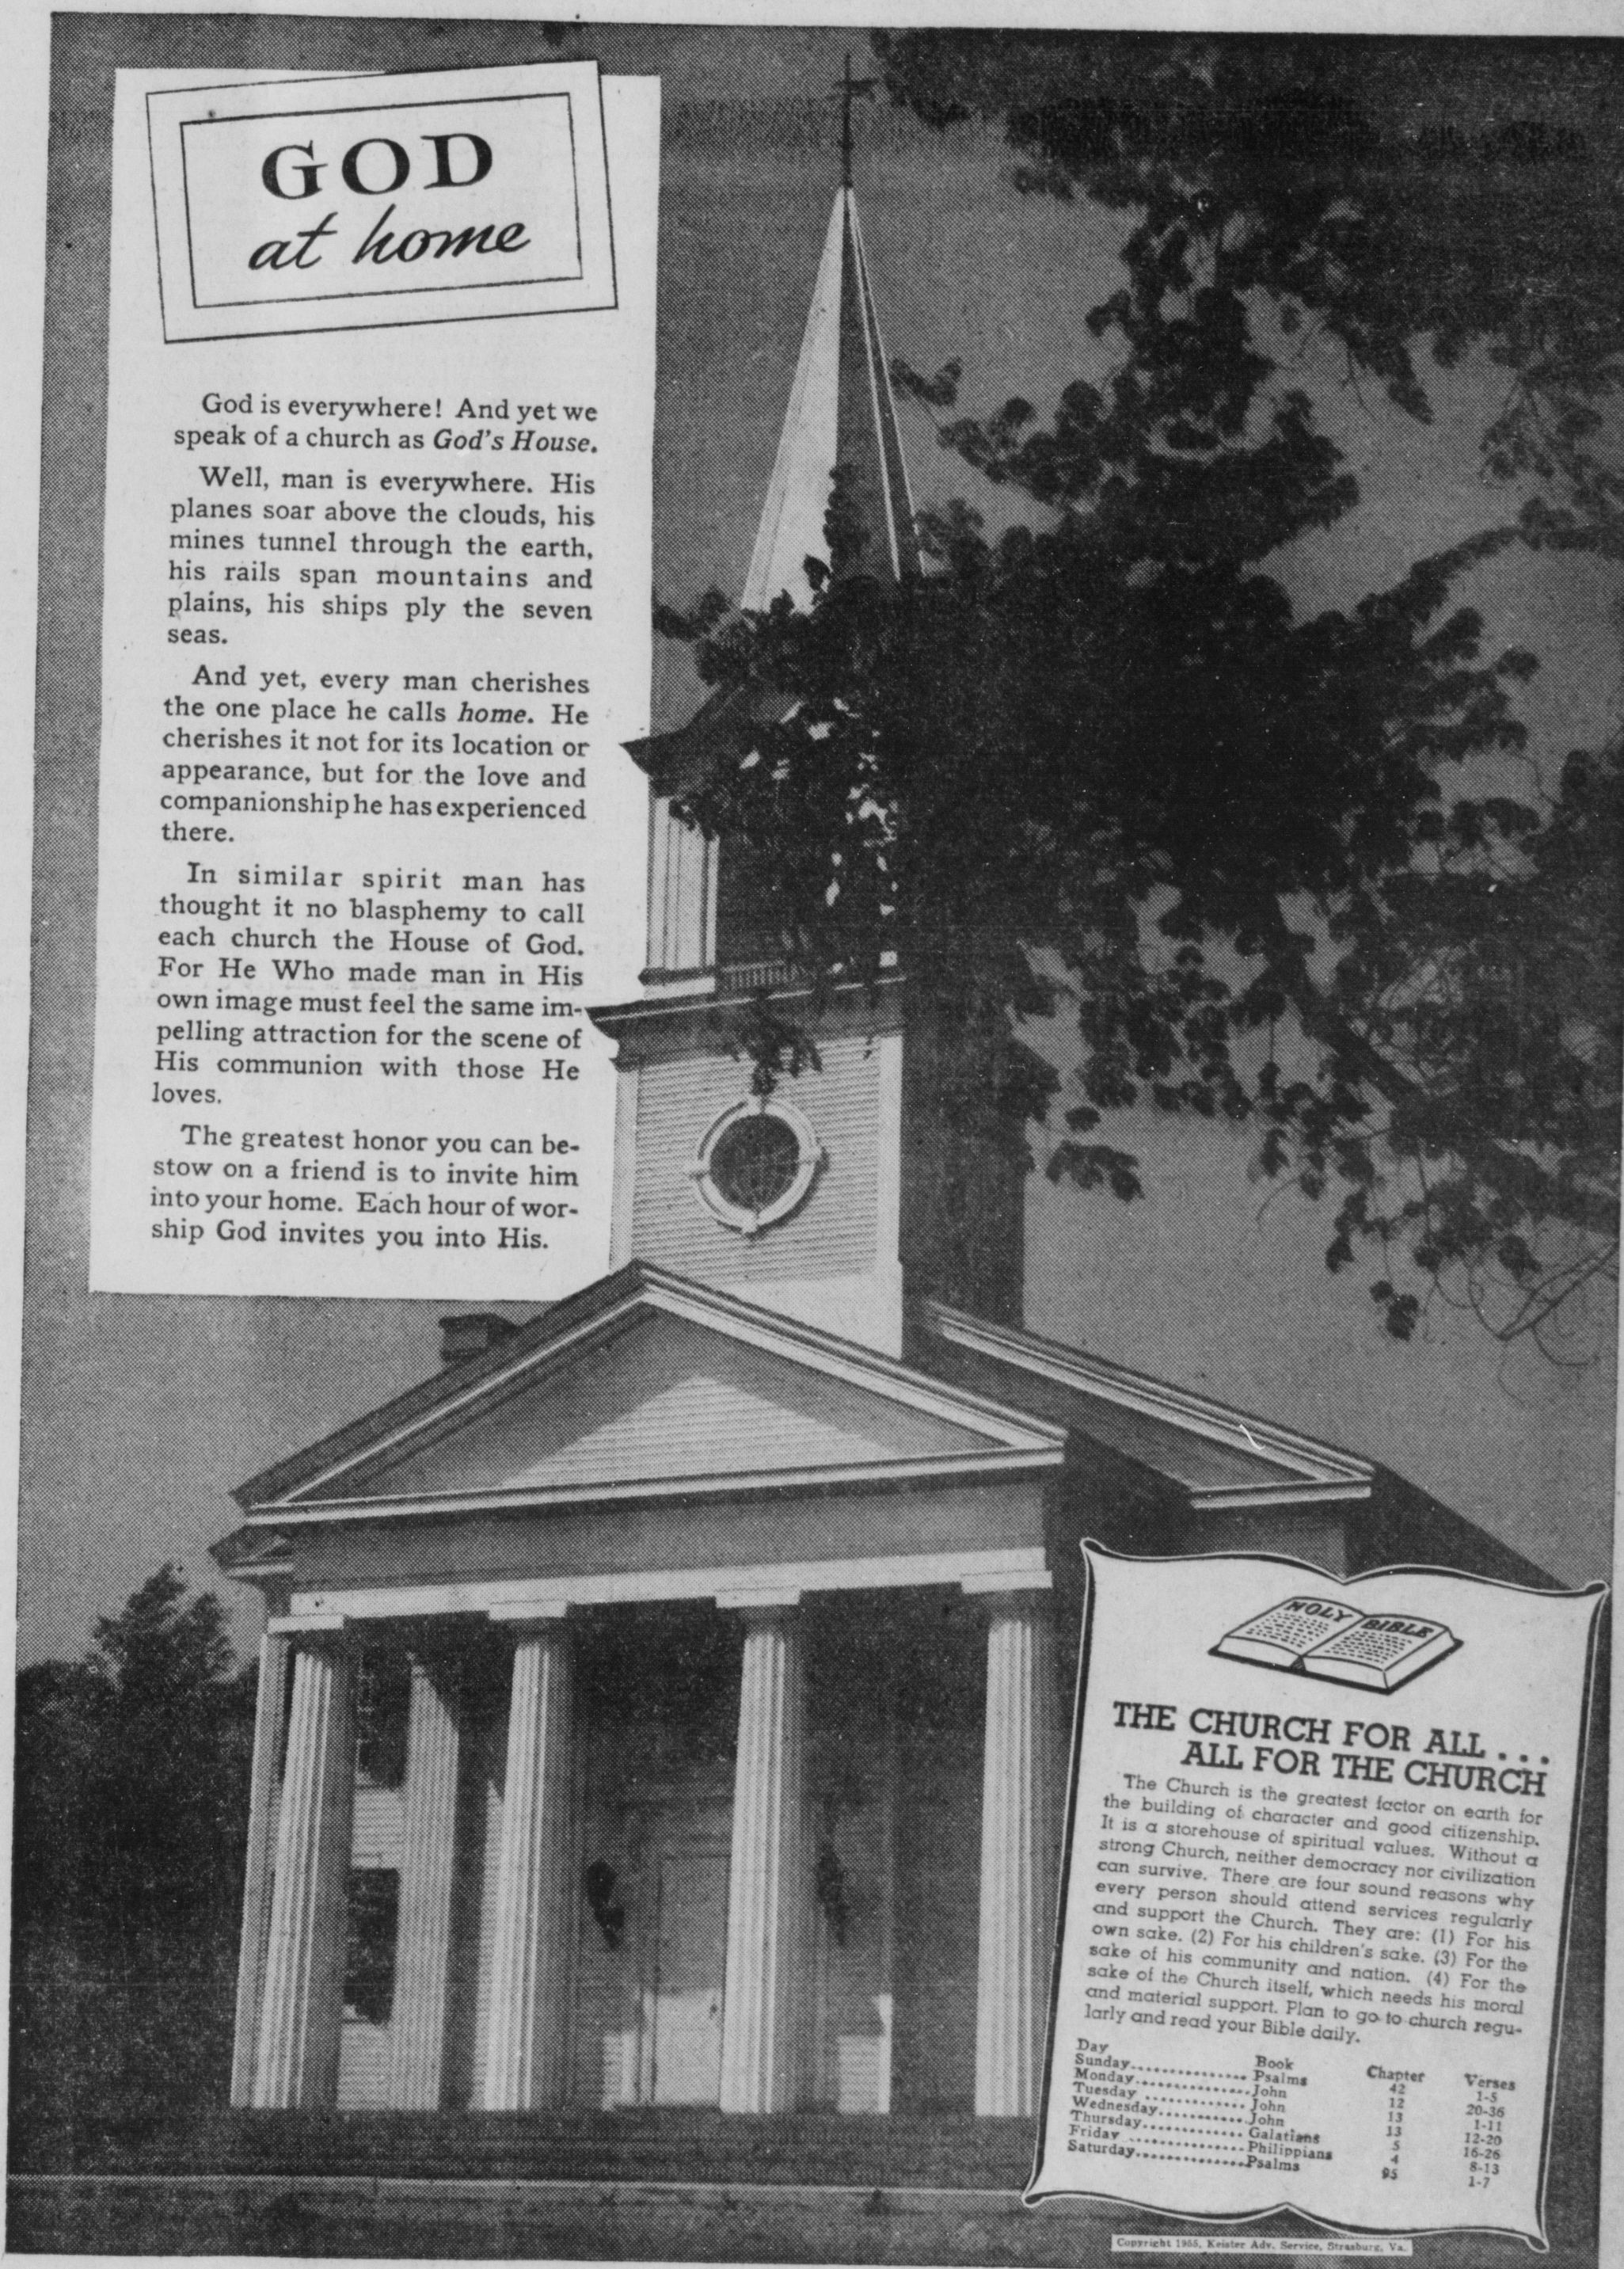

God is everywhere! And yet we speak of a church as God's House.

Well, man is everywhere. His planes soar above the clouds, his mines tunnel through the earth, his rails span mountains and plains, his ships ply the seven seas.

And yet, every man cherishes the one place he calls home. He cherishes it not for its location or appearance, but for the love and companionship he has experienced there.

In similar spirit man has thought it no blasphemy to call each church the House of God. For He Who made man in His own image must feel the same compelling attraction for the scene of His communion with those He loves.

The greatest honor you can bestow on a friend is to invite him into your home. Each hour of worship God invites you into His.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

City Lutherans List Sunday Services

At the 8:30 and 10:45 a. m. worship services in Trinity Lutheran Church Sunday, the Rev. Carl G. Zehner will present his sermon, "Jesus Haunts His Crucifiers", taken from Matt. 28:1-15.

The senior choir will present an anthem at the early service when they will lead the congregational singing. At the late service, the youth choir will present an anthem.

The nursery will be open in the Parish House during the 10:45 a. m. service to care for children up to three years of age.

Sunday school will follow the early service at 9:30 a. m.

GOD at home

God is everywhere! And yet we speak of a church as God's House.

Well, man is everywhere. His planes soar above the clouds, his mines tunnel through the earth, his rails span mountains and plains, his ships ply the seven seas.

And yet, every man cherishes the one place he calls home. He cherishes it not for its location or appearance, but for the love and companionship he has experienced there.

In similar spirit man has thought it no blasphemy to call each church the House of God. For He Who made man in His own image must feel the same compelling attraction for the scene of His communion with those He loves.

The greatest honor you can bestow on a friend is to invite him into your home. Each hour of worship God invites you into His.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

COMMUNIST CONVULSIONS

THE SUCCESSION in power in Soviet Russia has erupted into the usual orgy of head rolling for which the communists are noted. In one swoop tens of thousands of Soviet collective farm managers are being deposed and replaced by party stalwarts who, it is presumed, will be more blindly amenable to the Khrushchev-Bulgarian regime.

In the meantime the Kremlin continues to play musical chairs with its deputy ministers, dropping them in and out of top posts like so many fish in a barrel. The bosses are working hard to put together a new team. As usual the discarded players are receiving the sort of treatment American ballplayers give their broken bats.

For some reason or other, Moscow is concerned lest the free world become convinced that discarded Premier Malenkov has met his end prematurely. Malenkov, or a reasonable facsimile thereof, was paraded in Moscow the other day to prove that he is still among the living. It would be a ghoulish Moscow trick to show him off publicly and then stand him up before a firing squad.

DOUBLE TROUBLE

THE FIRST LADY put a reception guest who had committed the supposedly unpardonable error of wearing a frock similar to that of her hostess at ease. "Oh, you've got the same dress on," she said with a delighted tone of discovery. "I just love it, don't you?"

Countries go to great lengths to try to avoid such embarrassments by limiting the distribution of their finer fashions, one to a city. This device is not foolproof, however, because of the ease with which people "in society" trapies around the country.

An exclusive number purchased in New York can turn up in San Francisco, Miami or Boston. In moments such as these life stands still until the suddenly paired fabric twins compose themselves and the situation. At such a time there is needed a personality that can step right up and say, "I just love it, don't you?"

ADDITION TO MINUTIAE

A WEEK-END gardener recently reclined after a session with rake and hoe to report new confidence in the integrity of American industry. It seems he had become engrossed in all the printed detail on his supply of gayly colored seed packages even down to the number of seeds that were supposed to be in each one. His skeptical nature getting the better of him, this Doubting Thomas decided to audit some of his packets.

Now with an air of complete trust he reports that by actual count there were 21.5 per cent more seeds in the packages than claimed on the envelopes. In this manner one gardener makes the best of each golden moment.

These Days

From many standpoints the Bandoeng (Bandung) Conference is one of the most important events to have occurred in recent years. It is the first time in human history that 30 nations of Asia and Africa meet for any purpose at all; they meet on this occasion to assert the equality of the pigmented peoples of the world with the so-called "white" peoples, the Western European and American.

Called by Burma, Ceylon, India, Indonesia and Pakistan, it is largely a creature of Nehru and an assertion of maturity by countries which were once part of the British Empire. The other 25 nations who will attend are: Afghanistan, Cambodia, Central African Federation, (Red) China, Egypt, Ethiopia, Gold Coast, Iran, Iraq, Japan, Jordan, Laos, Lebanon, Liberia, Libya, Nepal, Philippines, Saudi Arabia, Sudan, Syria, Thailand, Turkey, Vietnam (North), Vietnam (South), Yemen.

Of these Ethiopia, Iran, Iraq, Philippines, Thailand, Turkey, and Pakistan may be regarded as friendly to the United States. It is today impossible to include Japan in that list because Japan's position grows more precarious every day, particularly after our State Department would not permit Japan's Foreign Minister, Mamoru Shigemitsu, to strengthen his position by coming to the United States. Shigemitsu had, it is true, little to say that could not be said through ordinary diplomatic channels, but he needed "face" by a visit to the United States and that for some inexplicable reason was withheld from him. We may be forcing Japan into the arms of Red China.

One of the subjects to be discussed at Bandoeng is the position of Asia and Africa in relation to problems affecting national sovereignty, racialism and colonialism. This item must include the question of the successor sovereignty of China, whether it is Communist China and Nationalist China and therefore the whole problem of Formosa will be thoroughly ventilated. Red China will make the claim that the United States has restored colonialism in Asia by its Formosan policy.

The Philippine delegate, Carlos Romulo, will undoubtedly defend the American position, but whether our few friends at the Conference will be able to prevent a resolution against the United States is to be seen.

Dr. Saifuddin Kitchlew, President of the All-India Peace Council, states the case for the pro-Communist China group as follows:

"In India, we are unanimous that Taiwan must be restored to China. Again and again our Prime Minister has opposed the outrageous farce of representation of the Chiang Kai-shek coterie in the United Nations. We have demanded resolutely that the Chinese People's Republic be granted its rightful place in the United Nations.

"We know well that the Governments of the United States and Great Britain are breaking solemn obligations, freely entered into, when they prevent the restoration of Taiwan to the Chinese People's Republic. International agreements and declarations, signed by the President of the United States and the Prime Minister of Great Britain, are being shamelessly violated, and an effort is being made by these powers to appear as 'peacemakers', preventing Chinese 'aggression' against poor little Chiang Kai-shek."

A Skin Inflammation That's Very Contagious

By HERMAN M. BUNDESEN, M.D.

PARENTS probably are more familiar with the results of impetigo contagiosa than they are with the name.

Very Contagious

This is a skin inflammation and a very contagious one. It's caused by staphylococci and streptococci pus-forming germs and it usually strikes children.

One of the most common of skin diseases, it usually forms its crust-like scabs or pimples on a youngster's face, neck, ears or hands. Or, it may appear as a cold sore on his lips.

While these blisters or scabs are unsightly, they seldom itch or burn. Nevertheless, I must caution you against scratching them. The purulent material which is discharged from the scabs might lodge under your fingernails, thus making you a carrier to pass the disease on to someone else.

The most common sources of infection for children are pets, athletic clothing, boxing gloves and from other children in school. Adults sometimes contract the disease in barbershops, beauty parlors, swimming pools and Turkish baths. They can catch it from children, too.

Rules of Hygiene

Now there are some general rules of hygiene to follow as well as specific treatment. Don't share a towel or wash cloth with anyone infected with impetigo contagiosa. Change the patient's pillowcase every day. Launder them separately. Don't put them in a washing machine with other linens.

Clothing or underclothing which comes in contact with the skin must be laundered separately also. Handle these articles very carefully. It's easy to infect an entire household.

Keep the fingernails short and clean. Be especially careful about this.

CHAPTER NINETEEN

THE first part of the day was quiet but Susan's brighter mood didn't last. The shadows were still there. Since Regina had come downstairs the night before, after the scene in the bedroom when she had heard the truth about Jim Andrus, she had been different. It was as though she had gone behind a transparent wall where nothing could really get at her. Outwardly she was more cheerful. It was only on the surface. She spoke confidently of Jim Andrus, was sure he would be cleared. Yet she was as determined as ever on the flight to Majorca, for which Frederick already had the reservations.

At 4, she gave it up and went for a walk. The wind was high, the skies lowering. What did Regina propose to do about Jim Andrus? she wondered. They had lost enough time. Loving him as Regina did, surely now they would marry at once. Perhaps Jim Andrus would follow her to Majorca, perhaps they had arranged that last night.

"Whoa . . . Where are you off to in such a hurry?" It was Dave Redgate, coming down the steps of a house near the woods. She almost bumped into him. Dave looked tired, tired. They talked for a couple of minutes. Susan said, "You're working too hard," and Dave replied, "Needs must when the devil drives."

"That's a nice way to refer to your patients," she retorted, but Dave didn't smile. He knew that Regina was going to Majorca, and approved of it. "Amy says it's all settled. It will do her good. But have you heard? I was talking to Parr a little while ago. Andrus is out of jail. Well, I've got to rush. He turned away abruptly, got into his car and drove off."

Susan had suspected it for a long while, she was almost sure then that Dave loved Regina. Perhaps if he had asked Regina when they were both younger, before she met Trout—but Dave wasn't in a position to marry then, nor had marriage seemed to occur to him. He was completely wrapped up in his research work. It was before old Doctor Joe was stricken and Dave had to come home and take up his father's practice that Regina married.

Jim Andrus out of jail. It was no surprise. He shouldn't have been arrested in the first place. She switched her mind away from him, determinedly. She had done what she could earlier for Regina's sake. It was finished now that he was free. She needn't bother about him any longer.

The wind was knife edged. It cut through her coat. She walked on faster. Half an hour later she ended up in front of Edith and Frederick's, started to cut down under the trees, black against lead-colored clouds, and changed her mind. The little detective from New York, Mr. Todhunter, was crossing the terrace above. Susan followed him into the house, going in by way of the music room door.

Todhunter and Edith were in the long living-room beyond the glass doors. One of the doors was half open. Neither of them saw her. Todhunter was showing Edith a piece of paper. He said mildly and apologetically, "I'm afraid—there isn't any doubt, Mrs. Felham. . . . The finger prints, you know. . . . You took the photograph of Mr. Andrus from the album in your sister-in-law's house last Sunday and sent it to the Yonkers Messenger, didn't you?"

Edith stood glaring at him, her face an angry pink, her eyes protruding. "I—" she hesitated on the point of denial, thought better of it. She walked away a few feet and turned around to face her tormentor. "And if I did, what of it?" she demanded defiantly. "Was I to sit idly by and see the man who killed my nephew go scot free? It would be ruinous for Regina to marry him, out of pity, because she feels sorry for him. It would be a tragedy. She'd regret it the rest of her life. I was only thinking of her. . . . I know Andrus is out of jail, Regina told me a little while ago—and I know what Susan Dwight did. It's my private opinion that Susan—"

Susan walked into the room. She paused close to Edith, looking her in the eye. "Go on, Edith, my pet, don't let me interrupt. What is your private opinion of me?"

Edith was in a red rage. It had complete possession of her. "You!" she exclaimed in a choked voice. "You—helping that man get away from the police, hiding him in the barn. . . . Yes, I'll tell you what my opinion is gladly. You're in love with that man, crazy for him. You—"

She broke off abruptly. The front door had opened and Regina and Jim Andrus had come in. They stood on the living-room threshold, side by side. Had they heard what Edith said? . . . Her straight glance was troubled. Andrus' face was inscrutable. No expression.

Susan caught her own shaking fury in a tight rein, waved a hand. "Hi, Regina. Hello, Mr. Andrus, good to see you. Edith and I were having a little argument." She turned back to the other woman. "Would it interest you to know how wrong you are, dear one? Would it interest you to know that Barry and I are engaged?"

A held moment. A movie still. The still dissolved into action, of the most ordinary kind. Edith, felled, looking stupid, foolish, and then frightened, because of the photograph, Regina didn't know

Durocher, points out Mr. Drebing, fiddles around and experiments with his line-up all through the spring months, with the result that his Giants are usually still buried in the second division come July, and have to play like fury in the stretch to make a respectable finish.

McGraw, on the other hand, believed in getting his club away flying. When the team didn't have it, the collapse in mid-season often was complete—but by that time the club's coffers were bulging. "In New York," he argued, "the first half of the season spells financial success or failure. July and August offer too many attractions. If you're still in the running, September crowds are pure velvet. But you've got to get those big attendances in the first half of the season to at least break even on the year."

news behind the news

Editor's Note: Every Saturday, Mr. Tucker answers readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent to him at 7008 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—"Do you believe," asks H. V. of Ashland, Ky., "that President Eisenhower would be justified in defending Quemoy and Matsu Islands with American troops, or should he stand firm on what he said in his 1952 campaign speeches—namely, 'let Asians fight Asians'?"

Answer—I think that I have tried to define President Eisenhower's possible strategy and tactics with respect to Quemoy and Matsu. If the Chinese Reds make only a minor movement against them, we may not interfere. But if they seek to neutralize Chinese Nationalist forces on Formosa and the Pescadores, we shall resist with everything we have.

UNFORTUNATE—Ike's "let Asians fight Asians" remark was most unfortunate, as he now realizes. It ranks along with the Roosevelt-Churchill Casablanca demand of "unconditional surrender" as one of the blunders of statesmanship.

It gives the impression, and had so been propagandized by the Comies everywhere, that we regard the life of an Oriental as cheap and dispensable. Naturally, we don't.

"A wire service," writes H.S. W. Springfield, Mass., "recently said that Harold Stassen released his Minnesota delegates to Ike on the first ballot at the 1952 convention. Is that correct?"

Answer—No, Harold held onto his delegates for the first ballot, as I recall, breaking to Ike later. Here is the authenticated story: The perennial presidential candidate, Stassen, favored Eisenhower over Taft, and was told by Ike's strategists to wrap up as many delegates for himself as he could. The plan, of course, was for him to throw them to Ike when needed.

But the ambitious Minnesotan, noting the Eisenhower-Taft division, thought he might have a chance to grab off the honor himself.

"Please advise," writes W. A.

N. of Flint, Mich., "Where I may obtain official substantiation that John L. Lewis contributed $500,000 to F.D.R.'s 1936 campaign. I have often heard this matter discussed, and I have seen it in print. But I have been told that this was a loan to the Democratic campaign, and was repaid as a bank loan."

Answer—The Lewis-to-Roosevelt loan has been written about for years, but, thanks to W.A.N.'s query and my research, there is a delicious angle never published before. Here is the story:

The United Mine Workers' convention, grateful for F.D.R.'s aid in rebuilding their almost shattered union, voted to contribute $50,000 to his personal campaign for the 1936 reelection. John L. brought the check to the White House, hoping for newspaper stories and photographs of his generous offer. Like most public men, John L. dotes and lives on publicity.

F.D.R.'s REBUFF—But F.D.R. refused to accept the check for his personal, private campaign. He would not go out on the porch or into the White House garden for photographs. He told John L. to give his check to the Democratic National Committee, then headed by James A. Farley. Though considerably miffed at this chilly White House reception, John L. complied.

However, as the campaign developed, Farley or one of his aides telephoned John L. periodically to say that "We are having trouble in your coal-mining states—Pennsylvania, Illinois, West Virginia, Ohio, etc., and how about advancing some more dough?"

The UMW president kicked through, in response to these requests, until the figure amounted to $500,000. Not a cent has ever been repaid.

COMMENT—A few years ago, John L. tangled with Sen. Robert A. Taft at a Senate committee hearing on mine safety legislation. The late senator reminded John L. of his gift to the Democrats. Ruefully, John L. commented:

"Yes, and I got nothing from it! I'll say this for the Republicans—when you buy them, they stay bought!"

A Skin Inflammation That's Very Contagious

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

PARENTS probably are more familiar with the results of impetigo contagiosa than they are with the name.

Very Contagious

This is a skin inflammation and a very contagious one. It's caused by staphylococci and streptococci pus-forming germs and it usually strikes children.

One of the most common of skin diseases, it usually forms its crust-like scabs or pimples on a youngster's face, neck, ears or hands. Or, it may appear as a cold sore on his lips.

While these blisters or scabs are unsightly, they seldom itch or burn. Nevertheless, I must caution you against scratching them. The purulent material which is discharged from the scabs might lodge under your fingernails, thus making you a carrier to pass the disease on to someone else.

The most common sources of infection for children are pets, athletic clothing, boxing gloves and from other children in school. Adults sometimes contact the disease in barbershops, beauty parlors, swimming pools and Turkish baths. They can catch it from children, too.

Rules of Hygiene

Now there are some general rules of hygiene to follow as well as specific treatment. Don't share a towel or wash cloth with anyone infected with impetigo contagiosa. Change the patient's pillowcase every day. Launder them separately. Don't put them in a washing machine with other linens.

Clothing or underclothing which comes in contact with the skin must be laundered separately also. Handle these articles very carefully. It's easy to infect an entire household.

Keep the fingernails short and clean. Be especially careful about this.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

H. B.: Can a glaucoma operation restore my sight?

Answer: Glaucoma is not incurable. Operations frequently produce a cure.

House garden for photographs. He told John L. to give his check to the Democratic National Committee, then headed by James A. Farley. Though considerably miffed at this chilly White House reception, John L. complied.

However, as the campaign developed, Farley or one of his aides telephoned John L. periodically to say that "We are having trouble in your coal-mining states—Pennsylvania, Illinois, West Virginia, Ohio, etc., and how about advancing some more dough?"

The UMW president kicked through, in response to these requests, until the figure amounted to $500,000. Not a cent has ever been repaid.

COMMENT—A few years ago, John L. tangled with Sen. Robert A. Taft at a Senate committee hearing on mine safety legislation. The late senator reminded John L. of his gift to the Democrats. Ruefully, John L. commented:

CHAPTER NINETEEN

THE first part of the day was quiet but Susan's brighter mood didn't last. The shadows were still there. Since Regina had come downstairs the night before, after the scene in the bedroom when she had heard the truth about Jim Andrus, she had been different. It was as though she had gone behind a transparent wall where nothing could really get at her. Outwardly she was more cheerful. It was only on the surface. She spoke confidently of Jim Andrus, was sure he would be cleared. Yet she was as determined as ever on the flight to Majorca, for which Frederick already had the reservations.

At 4, she gave it up and went for a walk. The wind was high, the skies lowering. What did Regina propose to do about Jim Andrus? she wondered. They had lost enough time. Loving him as Regina did, surely now they would marry at once. Perhaps Jim Andrus would follow her to Majorca, perhaps they had arranged that last night.

"Whoa . . . Where are you off to in such a hurry?" It was Dave Redgate, coming down the steps of a house near the woods. She almost bumped into him. Dave looked thin, tired. They talked for a couple of minutes. Susan said, "You're working too hard," and Dave replied, "Needs must when the devil drives."

"That's a nice way to refer to your patients," she retorted, but Dave didn't smile. He knew that Regina was going to Majorca, and approved of it. "Amy says it's all settled. It will do her good. But have you heard? I was talking to Parr a little while ago. Andrus is out of jail. Well, I've got to rush." He turned away abruptly, got into his car and drove off.

Susan had suspected it for a long while. He was almost sure then that Dave loved Regina. Perhaps if he had asked Regina when they were both younger, before she met Trout—but Dave wasn't in a position to marry then, nor had marriage seemed to occur to him. He was completely wrapped up in his research work. It was before old Doctor Joe was stricken and Dave had to come home and take up his father's practice that Regina married.

Jim Andrus out of jail. It was no surprise. He was almost sure then that Dave loved Regina. Perhaps if he had asked Regina when they were both younger, before she met Trout—but Dave wasn't in a position to marry then, nor had marriage seemed to occur to him. He was completely wrapped up in his research work. It was before old Doctor Joe was stricken and Dave had to come home and take up his father's practice that Regina married.

She switched her mind away from him, determinedly. She had done what she could earlier for Regina's sake. It was finished now that he was free. She needn't bother about him any longer.

The wind was knife edged. It cut through her coat. She walked on faster. Half an hour later she ended up in front of Edith and Frederick's, started to cut down under the trees, black against lead-colored clouds, and changed her mind. The little detective from New York, Mr. Todhunter, was crossing the terrace above. Susan followed him into the house, going in by way of the music room door.

Todhunter and Edith were in the long living-room beyond the glass doors. One of the doors was half open. Neither of them saw her. Todhunter was showing Edith a piece of paper. He said mildly and apologetically, "I'm afraid—there isn't any doubt, Mrs. Pelham . . . The finger prints, you know . . . You took the photograph of Mr. Andrus from the album in your sister-in-law's house last Sunday and sent it to the Yonkers Messenger, didn't you?"

Edith stood glaring at him, her face an angry pink, her eyes protruding. "I—" she hesitated on the point of denial, thought better of it. She walked away a few feet and turned around to face her tormentor. "And if I did, what of it?" she demanded defiantly. "Was I to sit idly by and see the man who killed my nephew go scot free? It would be ruinous for Regina to marry him, out of pity, because she feels sorry for him. It would be a tragedy. She'd regret it the rest of her life. I was only thinking of her . . . I know Andrus is out of jail, Regina told me a little while ago—and I know what Susan Dwight did. It's my private opinion that Susan—"

Susan walked into the room. She paused close to Edith, looking her in the eye. "Go on, Edith, my pet, don't let me interrupt. What is your private opinion of me?"

Edith was in a red rage. It had complete possession of her. "You!" she exclaimed in a choked voice. "You—helping that man get away from the police, hiding him in the barn . . . Yes, I'll tell you what my opinion is, gladly. You're in love with that man, crazy for him. You—"

She broke off abruptly. The front door had opened and Regina and Jim Andrus had come in. They stood on the living-room threshold, side by side. Had they heard what Edith said? . . . Her straight glance was troubled. Andrus' face was inscrutable. No expression.

Susan caught her own shaking fury in with a tight rein, waved a hand. "Hi, Regina. Hello, Mr. Andrus, good to see you. Edith and I were having a little argument." She turned back to the other woman. "Would it interest you to know how wrong you are, dear one? Would it interest you to know that Barry and I are engaged?"

A held moment. A movie still. The still dissolved into action, of the most ordinary kind. Edith, foiled, looking stupid, foolish, and then frightened, because of the photograph. Regina didn't know about the photograph yet. "Susan, I'm so glad." She crossed to Susan, put an arm around her and kissed her. "We all love Barry, and it's time you settled down." She turned to Andrus. "Isn't it, Jim?"

Andrus smiled. "Can I add my congratulations?" I'm sorry it— Her heart wasn't in it. She was too frightened. She glanced around.

But the sword suspended over her head didn't fall. The detective had strolled off and was examining a picture on the wall at the far end of the room, his back turned.

Regina couldn't stay. She had only come in for a moment to get another pile of the gift stockings she had been making; she had finished the ones she had—and would Edith and Frederick come to dinner that night? About 7? What she had really come for of course was to show Edith and Frederick in her own quiet way that Andrus was to be accepted without cavilling or question. Edith was forced to swallow the noxious dose. She played with her bracelets. She didn't know about dinner; it depended on what Frederick had on.

Less than a minute later, Susan, Regina and Andrus were outside the house and going down the hill. Susan walked gloomily behind the other two. She had got herself into a bad box with that spur of the moment assertion that she was engaged to Barry. She had no intention whatever of marrying him and it would be a mean trick to let him think she had. Or would it? Barry's ego was strong and healthy and it would take a lot really to hurt him. He thought he was in love with her now, just as five years ago he thought he was in love with Dell Howard and a couple of years before that with Regina. Compromise, let the HUI and her friends and relatives think she was engaged, and keep Barry away for the time being. She didn't need to worry for a couple of days anyhow, Barry had said he wouldn't be up that night, and he was going out to the Rankins on Long Island for the week-end.

She was mistaken. When she got into the house Barry was there, and the cat was already out of the bag. Regina had both his hands. "Barry, we're so pleased . . ."

Barry was ridiculously happy. "Susan!" He advanced on her, smiling radiantly, like a small boy. He took her in his arms.

Andrus wouldn't stay for dinner, although Susan gathered that he had intended to earlier. He left almost abruptly, saying he'd try to get over later if he could and started across for the Wolf Hill inn, where he had taken the same room he had occupied a year and a half ago.

Sports Analyst John Drebinger poo-poo's experts who declare that the Giants' present manager, Leo Durocher, is cast in the same mold as his famous predecessor, "Muggsy" McGraw. Durocher, points out Mr. Drebinger, fiddles around and experiments with his line-up all through the spring months, with the result that his Giants are usually still buried in the second division come July, and have to play like fury in the stretch to make a respectable finish.

McGraw, on the other hand, believed in getting his club away winning. When the team didn't have it, the collapse in mid-season often was complete—but by that time the club's coffers were bulging. "In New York," he argued, "the first half of the season spells financial success or failure. July and August offer too many attractions. If you're still in the running, September crowds are pure velvet. But you've got to get those big attendances in the first half of the season to at least break even on the year."

news behind the news

Editor's Note: Every Saturday, Mr. Tucker answers readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent to him at 7008 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—"Do you believe," asks H. V. of Ashland, Ky., "that President Eisenhower would be justified in defending Quemoy and Matsu Islands with American troops, or should he stand firm on what he said in his 1952 campaign speeches—namely, 'let Asians fight Asians'?"

Answer—I think that I have tried to define President Eisenhower's possible strategy and tactics with respect to Quemoy and Matsu. If the Chinese Reds make only a minor movement against them, we may not interfere. But if they seek to neutralize Chinese Nationalist forces on Formosa and the Pescadores, we shall resist with everything we have.

UNFORTUNATE—Like's "let Asians fight Asians" remark was most unfortunate, as he now realizes. It ranks along with the Roosevelt—Churchill Casablanca demand of "unconditional surrender" as one of the blunders of statesmanship.

It gives the impression, and had so been propagated by the Commies everywhere, that we regard the life of an Oriental as cheap and dispensable. Naturally, we don't.

"A wire service," writes H.S., W. Springfield, Mass., "recently said that Harold Stassen released his Minnesota delegates to Ike on the first ballot at the 1952 convention. Is that correct?"

Answer—No. Harold held onto his delegates for the first ballot, as I recall, breaking to Ike later. Here is the authenticated story: The perennial presidential candidate, Stassen, favored Eisenhower over Taft, and was told by Ike's strategists to wrap up as many delegates for himself as he could. The plan, of course, was for him to throw them to Ike when needed.

But the ambitious Minnesotan, noting the Eisenhower-Taft division, thought he might have a chance to grab off the honor himself.

"Please advise," writes W. A.

N. of Flint, Mich., "Where I may obtain official substantiation that John L. Lewis contributed $500,000 to F.D.R.'s 1936 campaign. I have often heard this matter discussed, and I have seen it in print. But I have been told that this was a loan to the Democratic campaign, and was repaid as a bank loan."

Answer—The Lewis-to-Roosevelt loan has been written about for years, but, thanks to W.A.N.'s query and my research, there is a delicious angle never published before. Here is the story:

The United Mine Workers' convention, grateful for F.D.R.'s aid in rebuilding their almost shattered union, voted to contribute $50,000 to his personal campaign for the 1936 reelection. John L. brought the check to the White House, hoping for newspaper stories and photographs of his generous offer. Like most public men, John L. dotes and lives on publicity.

F.D.R.'s REBUFF—But F.D.R. refused to accept the check for his personal, private campaign. He would not go out on the porch or into the White House garden for photographs. He told John L. to give his check to the Democratic National Committee, then headed by James A. Farley. Though considerably miffed at this chilly White House reception, John L. complied.

However, as the campaign developed, Farley or one of his aides telephoned John L. periodically to say that "We are having trouble in your coal-mining states—Pennsylvania, Illinois, West Virginia, Ohio, etc., and how about advancing some more dough?"

The UMW president kicked through, in response to these requests, until the figure amounted to $500,000. Not a cent has ever been repaid.

COMMENT—A few years ago, John L. tangled with Sen. Robert A. Taft at a Senate committee hearing on mine safety legislation. The late senator reminded John L. of his gift to the Democrats. Ruefully, John L. commented:

"Yes, and I got nothing from it! I'll say this for the Republicans—when you buy them, they stay bought!"

Household Hints

That parsley you bought for garnishing languishing in the refrigerator? Remember it gives a wonderfully fresh taste to salads. Snip lots of it fine with your kitchen scissors and add to cabbage or carrot slaw, mixed greens, cucumbers or tomatoes.

Ever dress up everyday apple-sauce with scoops of vanilla ice cream?

Barbecue sauce is delicious over chicken; but it's also good with duck. Roast the duck (cut in quarters) by your regular method, but baste often with the sauce.

Mix cottage cheese (the creamed variety) with grated carrot and finely grated onion; serve on salad greens for a luncheon salad.

Scrumptious Peach Pie For Spring

Warm, juicy deep dish peach pie just like Mom used to make, but there's a difference. It's the cinnamon, sugar and sour cream topping that makes it different... and oh so good.

Commercial sour cream is suggested because we like the zip of it with fruits, however, whipped cream may be used if you prefer. Make other canned fruit pies by your favorite recipe and try them with this elegant topping. Apple slices, tart cherries, apricots, plums, or blueberries are some suggestions.

Deep Dish Peach Pie
2 tablespoons sugar
3 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 can (1 lb. 14 oz.) sliced peaches
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons butter, or margarine
Pastry
1 cup commercial sour cream
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, or nutmeg

Mix sugar, flour and salt. Gradually add 1 cup syrup drained from the peaches, mixing until smooth. Add drained peaches and lemon juice. Put into baking dish and dot with butter. Fit pastry over dish, fluting to the edge. Cut several slits to allow escape of steam. Bake in a hot oven (425°F.) about 30 minutes, until crust is browned. Serve warm. Just before serving, spoon sour cream over crust and sprinkle with brown sugar and cinnamon. Five to six servings.

Berger Guild 9 Holds Meeting In Columbus

Berger Hospital Guild 9 met in the home of Mrs. Wilbur Brinker of Columbus.

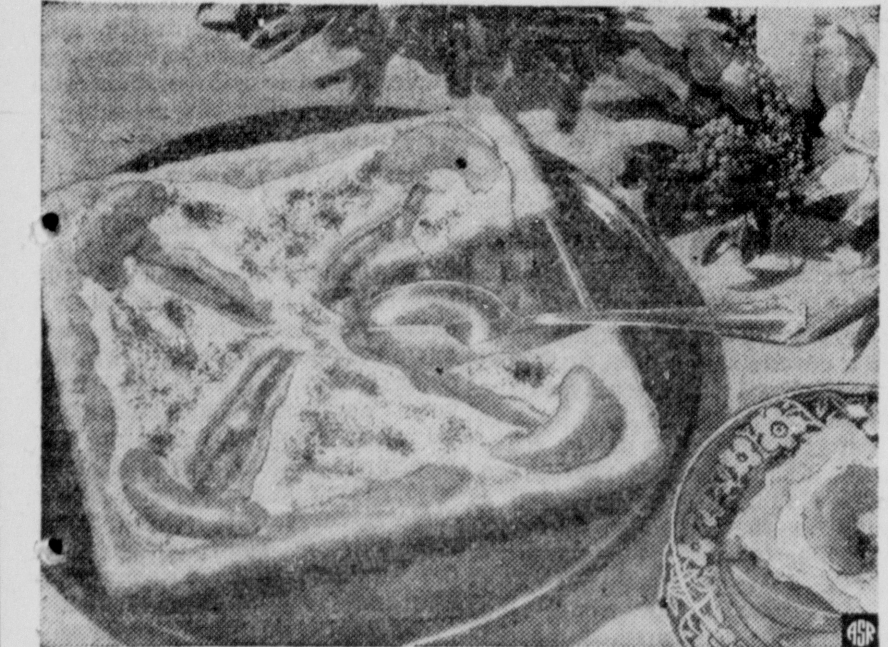

A total of 16 members and a visitor were present for the session. Mrs. Lawrence Heffner, chairman, appointed a ways and means committee for the year. Mrs. Martin Cromley will serve as chairman with Mrs. Virgil Six and Mrs. Carl Scothorn as her assistants. Projects for the year were discussed.

Gloves and jewelry were exchanged by the members to complete the costumes exchanged at previous meetings. A fashion show will be a feature of a June meeting, with the members wearing their complete costumes, which they have purchased at the meetings.

Contests were enjoyed with Mrs. Wayne Hines and Mrs. Frank Wharton named as winners.

Mrs. Brinker was assisted by Mrs. Lawrence Heffner and Mrs. Alva May in serving refreshments.

Scrumptious Peach Pie For Spring

Warm, juicy deep dish peach pie just like Mom used to make, but there's a difference. It's the cinnamon, sugar and sour cream topping that makes it different. . . and oh so good.

Commercial sour cream is suggested because we like the zip of it with fruits, however, whipped cream may be used if you prefer. Make other canned fruit pies by your favorite recipe and try them with this elegant topping. Apple slices, tart cherries, apricots, plums, or blueberries are some suggestions.

Deep Dish Peach Pie

2 tablespoons sugar	2 tablespoons butter, or margarine
3 tablespoons flour	Pastry
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 can (1 lb. 14 oz.) sliced peaches	1 cup commercial sour cream
1 tablespoon lemon juice	2 tablespoons brown sugar
	1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, or nutmeg

Mix sugar, flour and salt. Gradually add 1 cup syrup drained from the peaches, mixing until smooth. Add drained peaches and lemon juice. Put into baking dish and dot with butter. Fit pastry over dish, fluting to the edge. Cut several slits to allow escape of steam. Bake in a hot oven (425°F.) about 30 minutes, until crust is browned. Serve warm. Just before serving, spoon sour cream over crust and sprinkle with brown sugar and cinnamon. Five to six servings.

Tiny-brimmed, neat, little sailor in baku sole. Narrow velvet ribbon band is continued to form curved stems for the two large, white daisies set above one eye.

Mushroom crown cloche of lustrous, imported ball buntal straw with wreath of flowers and leaves and a crisp, white organdy overskirt on the brim.

Elliptically-shaped sailor in lustrous ball buntal, a smooth and shining imported straw, is trimmed with a large, black velvet bow lying flat on brim.

This mushroom cloche, a new shape for Spring, 1955, is in beautiful, imported straw braid. Its crown and ripple brim are trimmed with velvet cording.

Natural raw silk fabric in this pert little hat, which sits squarely on the head. It is perfectly plain except for narrow self band and little velvet tab.

Easter bonnet in imported straw features a gay wreath of flowers and fruit on its rippled brim. It is wonderful for this Spring's softer-looking suits and dresses.

Household Hints

That parsley you bought for garnishing languishing in the refrigerator? Remember it gives a wonderfully fresh taste to salads. Snip lots of it fine with your kitchen scissors and add to cabbage or carrot slaw, mixed greens, cucumbers or tomatoes.

Ever dress up everyday apple-sauce with scoops of vanilla ice cream?

Barbecue sauce is delicious over chicken; but it's also good with duck. Roast the duck (cut in quarters) by your regular method, but baste often with the sauce.

Mix cottage cheese (the creamed variety) with grated carrot and finely grated onion; serve on salad greens for a luncheon salad.

4-H CLUB

The County 4-H Advisory Council met for their first session since the annual banquet at which time there was election for member replacement.

For this council of seven 4-H Advisors and two members, Loring Leist was elected chairman; George Bowling, vice-chairman; and Mrs. Loring Stoer, secretary.

It was decided that the council would help in setting up a Junior Fair Board on the basis of the recommendations presented to and accepted by the Fair Board.

Bob List of Monroe Township and Wanda Maxson of Saltcreek Township were elected as the 4-H representatives for the Junior Fair Board. Mrs. Stoer and Wayne Brown Jr. were appointed as the advisor representatives for the advisory committee of this junior group.

A review was made of the special events during the project year for recognition of members who have done outstanding work in 4-H. The records of these members were inspected and the chairman appointed Mrs. Frank Baum, and Hoyt Martin as a committee to work with the Extension staff in deciding the members most deserving for the several awards and recognitions.

Pickaway Junior Livestock Club's 28 members met in the Pickaway Township school.

An election of officers was held with the following results: Billy Harrah, president; Norm Wilson, vice-president; Joyce Miller, secretary; Luther Johnson, treasurer; Ned Musselman, news reporter, and Janet Bower, recreation leader.

Following meetings will be held on the second and fourth Mondays of each month. The next meeting will be April 25 at 8 p. m. in the Pickaway Township school.

The Muhlenberg Stitches and Bakettes 4-H Club held an organization meeting under the leadership of Mrs. Lee Downs and Mrs. Carroll Reid.

Officers for the year are as follows: President, Betty Eitel; vice-president, Ruth Daniels; secretary, Mary Ellen Downs; treasurer, Marilyn Dudleson; news reporter, Margaret Reid; recreation leaders, Joann Fausnaugh and Polly Skaggs, and safety and health leaders, Ruth Daniels and Mary Ellen Downs.

The dues was set for 10 cents a month. No regular meeting dates have been set. The next meeting will be held in the Muhlenberg school building.

Miss Ellen Crites was the Easter Sunday guest of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Courtright and family.

Callers of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ankins last week were Mrs. Harold Taylor and Mrs. Gale Taylor and children of Bexley and Mrs. Roy Wood.

Herb Score's Debut Is OK Against Tigers

CHICAGO (AP) — Herb Score, a strong-armed youngster who refused to let wildness upset him, took his place today in the front rank of the American League's best pitching staff.

The 21-year-old Cleveland Indian rookie won the first game of his major league career yesterday at Detroit, beating the Tigers, 7-3.

Although Score gave up two runs in the first two innings and had all kinds of trouble finding the plate, Manager Al Lopez kept his able relief staff from warming up — undoubtedly hoping to increase the rookie's confidence.

Score struck out nine Tigers, walked another nine and gave up seven hits. Batting well behind him, the Tribe moved ahead in the fifth inning and put the game beyond the Tigers' grasp with a three-run outburst in the eighth.

Because of his wildness, Score pitched 172 times but still remained strong in the final inning. The average number of deliveries for a nine-inning game is 120.

Score was not as impressive in his first start as Bob Feller was in 1936. Feller, who had done a few relief chores before his first major start, struck out 15 Philadelphia Athletics in his first full game.

Feller, making his first start of 1955, pitches today against Chicago's Billy Pierce. Feller, who had a 133 record last season, beat the White Sox three times and lost to them once. Pierce, who had a 9-10 mark, beat the Indians three times and lost to them twice.

Washington C. H. Lions Club will again sponsor a Matinee Race Program on Sunday, April 24, at the Fayette County fairground track.

This will be the third annual event that has proven to be so popular the previous years.

A nominal charge will be made at the gate with the grandstand and parking facilities offered free. Children will be admitted free.

Hank Butler and his mobile starting gate from Waverly will be on hand to start each race. The presiding judge will be Carl Weinland from New Carlisle. Both are licensed officials by the United States Trotting Association and follow their trade throughout each racing season at many of the states county fairs and pari-mutuel tracks.

Post time for the Sunday afternoon racing will be 1:30 p. m. with eight races scheduled for the day. The list of entries will be made up from the more than 100 harness horses that have been in training here this spring.

A diversified racing program will be drawn up which will include the prelude of two-year-old trotters and pacers as well as aged horses that have campaigned previous seasons.

All proceeds will go to the Lions Club sight saving fund.

McKinley wired a preliminary report after the game and mailed a complete report later. At one point in the incident, the umpire appeared to be

New Record Expected At Trot Tracks

COLUMBUS (AP)—A healthy boost in attendance, wagering and purses at America's harness tracks for the 1955 campaign was predicted today by Don R. Millar, executive vice president of the U. S. Trotting Assn.

Basing what he called a conservative estimate on early-season returns from scattered tracks, Millar said attendance should show a six per cent increase over 1954, with wagering and purses paid the trotter-pacer owners up about 10 per cent.

Last year's attendance, including those who watched the county fair speed programs, was 19,147,225. Wagering totalled $444,845,000 and the horsemen collected $18,961,265 in purses. All 1954 figures were records.

"Over a period of years," Millar said, "we have found we are able to predict national patterns quite accurately by projecting early figures against such known factors as racing dates, new tracks, expanded facilities, etc."

"On the basis of fine early season showings in each of the three categories at Santa Anita Park, Roosevelt Raceway and Magnolia Park, it seems certain—barring an economic setback—that two new records will result."

Millar pointed out that two new tracks will operate this year, and that the season has been extended with earlier openings and later closings scheduled in several areas, including metropolitan New York.

New tracks are Audubon Park at Henderson, Ky., which opens a 30-day program July 4, and Pelican Park at Lake Charles, La., which launches a 60-day season Sept. 15.

Furgol And Wall Tie In Greensboro

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP)—U. S. Open Champ Ed Furgol of St. Louis and Art Wall Jr. of Pocono Manor, Pa., shared the driver's seat going into today's second round of the $12,500 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament, but they couldn't afford to relax despite opening rounds of 66.

They were only one shot ahead of little Jerry Barber, the veteran from Los Angeles, whose numerous high money finishes have him fourth in the latest money winning list. Seventeen other players were within easy striking distance after first 70 or under efforts in their first trip over the 6,600-yard Sedgefield Country Club course.

Gadgets Galore Showing Up As 'Aids' To Modern Golfer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gadgets galore, designed to assuage the suffering and grief of goldfom's guys and gals, are flooding the market.

The well-dressed and fully-equipped duffer of '55, if he takes advantage of the innovations, will look like he's set for an African safari instead of a leisurely 18-hole jaunt.

For instance, the bag-carrying golf cart or pushmobile which began supplanting the cult-toting caddies not too long ago, has blossomed out with more accessories than a chrome-covered convertible.

The new one-manpower cart has: ball-bearing wheels, inflated tires, a meter to mark off the yards from the tee to your drive (a bell rings every 50 yards), a fairway seat which swings out from the handle; a built-in bag with a separate compartment for each club, and a detachable tray which comes as an accessory at a slight extra fee.

The tray, in a pipe-like attachment, holds extra balls so one is available at all times, a package of cigarettes, a pencil and scorecard, tees, and a covered ashtray in which to deposit your cigarette while firing a shot.

One of the most intriguing of the new fairway fashions is a golfing cap with blinders, like old Dobbin used to wear, on the sides. The blinders may be flipped up while walking about, and down into position when you address the ball.

When down, the blinders are supposed to shut out everything except the small area around the ball. The idea is that they help you observe golfing's No. 1 rule of "Keep your eye on the ball."

The same cap has a built-in wind gauge to show the velocity and direction of the breeze, undoubtedly a boon to the duffer who generally has no idea where he's going to hit the ball.

Then there's a pedometer, to be strapped around the ankle, for golfers who want to know how far they walk in an 18-hole round; a putter with a target implanted in the center of the blade, guaranteed to make putts from any place on the green if you hit the ball correctly; gold-plated tees at $1.95 per half-dozen, and a golfing glove with a rigid strip running down the back of the wrist to prevent bending—a feature which guarantees you'll break 90.

To mark your ball on the putting surface, in place of a dime which few duffers have after the third hole in a "skin" game, the gadgeteers offer a pencil-like invention which deposits a drop of white powder on the green when a little plunger is plunged.

For the figure-filberts are wrist-watch scorers which chalk up the hole-by-hole and total counts, and one resembling a baseball umpire's indicator. Most intricate of the scorekeepers, however, is a plastic card with movable indicators, showing all 18 holes. The indicator is moved across the face of the card, like the old poolroom markers on a wire, to show the score for each hole. The total is kept by an indicator running around the edge.

The latter score card is limited in its use, however, since the score runs up to only 10 for each hole, and to 140 for the round.

Another gadget due to get heavy use is a rubber tee. On one end is the tee, on the other a rounded disc with a nail to be pushed into the ground. The disc and tee are connected by some six inches of rubber. The tee has two great attributes. The ball is always elevated to the same height, and the tee can not be lost—even when used in sand traps or dense woods or rough.

If you don't care for all the gadgets, they have on display a single club on which the face angle may be changed by a simple twist which turns it all the way from putter to 9-iron and you may play the entire round with it alone. And probably have just as much fun, too.

Batsmen Banging Early In AA Play

TOLEDO (AP)—It took only two days for hitters to start finding the range in the young American Association baseball season.

The batsmen banged out a total of 75 safeties in four games last night, including seven home runs, on the heels of openers marked by three shutouts.

Toledo's Sox broke loose for nine home runs in the eighth inning to spank the visiting Denver Bears, 11-6. At Louisville, four moundmen for the Colonels were routed as St. Paul administered a 12-0 whitewashing. An eight-run eighth frame was the margin at Indianapolis as the Indians slugged the Minneapolis Millers, 9-2. And the Omaha Cardinals outlasted Charleston, 10-6.

Cal Hubbard, supervisor of umpires in the American League, is a former collegiate and professional football star.

Billy Graham Hangs Up Mitts

NEW YORK (AP)—Billy Graham has called it quits in the ring after 14 years and 126 pro fights.

"I guess I just haven't got it any more," admitted the 32-year-old New Yorker.

The veteran welterweight, who came within a shade of winning the crown from Kid Gavilan on Aug. 29, 1951, hung up the gloves yesterday to go into business.

Four straight defeats, the last two to Chico Vejar, induced Billy to retire. He lost only 15 of his 126 bouts. He said:

"I should have beaten all those guys easy, so I'm packing it in."

Mims Outgrabs Jones In Bout

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Holly Mims and Bobby Jones, two highly ranked middleweights, clutched and pawed at each other for 10 rounds last night.

Not even the between round urgings of Referee Zack Clayton, who was being urged by State Athletic Commissioner Al Klein, could produce any action for the handful of fans and the TV audience.

The fourth ranked Mims earned the unanimous decision of the two judges and the referee with mild rallies of combination punching and a point producing left jab.

New Record Expected At Trot Tracks

COLUMBUS (AP)—A healthy boost in attendance, wagering and purses at America's harness tracks for the 1955 campaign was predicted today by Don R. Millar, executive vice president of the U. S. Trotting Assn.

Basing what he called a conservative estimate on early-season returns from scattered tracks, Millar said attendance should show a six per cent increase over 1954, with wagering and purses paid the trotter-pacer owners up about 10 per cent.

Last year's attendance, including those who watched the county fair speed programs, was 19,147, 225. Wagering totalled $444,845,000 and the horsemen collected $18,961,265 in purses. All 1954 figures were records.

"Over a period of years," Millar said, "we have found we are able to predict national patterns quite accurately by projecting early figures against such known factors as racing dates, new tracks, expanded facilities, etc."

"On the basis of fine early season showings in each of the three categories at Santa Anita Park, Roosevelt Raceway and Magnolia Park, it seems certain—barring an economic setback—that new records will result."

Millar pointed out that two new tracks will operate this year, and that the season has been extended with earlier openings and later closings scheduled in several areas, including metropolitan New York.

New tracks are Audubon Park at Henderson, Ky., which opens a 30-day program July 4, and Pelican Park at Lake Charles, La., which launches a 60-day session Sept. 15.

Furgol And Wall Tie In Greensboro

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP)—U. S. Open Champ Ed Furgol of St. Louis and Art Wall Jr. of Pocono Manor, Pa., shared the driver's seat going into today's second round of the $12,500 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament, but they couldn't afford to relax despite opening rounds of 66.

They were only one shot ahead of little Jerry Barber, the veteran from Los Angeles, whose numerous high money finishes have him fourth in the latest money winning list. Seventeen other players were within easy striking distance after par 70 and under efforts in their first trip over the 6,600-yard Sedgefield Country Club course.

McDowell Says Ohio Can Meet Own School Financial Needs

Defends County Administrators Against Charge

Ruml Attacks School Officials' Efficiency; Offers Federal Aid

"Ohio, with all its wealth, ought to be able to meet the financial needs of its schools without outside help," said Pickaway County Superintendent of Schools George McDowell.

He was referring to a proposal by Beardsley Ruml, New York financier, in which a federal school aid plan would allot $20 per student per year. Ruml, author of the "pay-as-you-go" tax plan, further proposed that this federal assistance be increased until it reaches $80 per pupil by 1965.

Ruml, at a convention in Cleveland earlier this month, also issued a blast at school administrators with which McDowell took issue. The proposal, he said, would "necessarily place a demand on school administrators for efficiency and a public accounting of their stewardship."

"And," he added, "present reporting is so inadequate as to cause suspicion of affirmative concealment."

McDOWELL SAID this charge is "absolutely without foundation" in Pickaway County. He defended the county administration as "honest."

Ruml's program would cost, according to his own estimates, approximately $367 million in 1956 and $764 million in 1957. By 1965, at $80 per child for an estimated 44 million children, the figure would be hiked to $3.5 billion.

McDowell said that the state of Ohio is very capable of taking care of its schools financially. He cited the following statistics:

Ohio ranks eighth in the United States in financial ability, as measured by income per capita — yet the state ranks fifth from the bottom in per cent of income spent for schools.

Ohio ranks 16th among the nation in average salaries of teachers and 15th in average value of public school property per pupil — yet the state ranks almost in the lower third for current expenditures per pupil in average daily attendance.

McDOWELL emphasized that he is not against federal aid to building programs. But this, he noted, is quite different from the federal aid proposed by Ruml.

One of the largest arguments to Ruml's proposal is that an equal share of federal aid would go to wealthier and less wealthy states alike.

Religious Education Week Tied To Weekday Activities

COLUMBUS—The week of April 24-May 1 will be observed throughout Ohio as Weekday Religious Education Week, when special emphasis will be given to the contribution to Christian work being made by the 46 area weekday councils of Ohio.

With the aid of the Ohio Council of Churches, the interdenominational program is now past its 30th year in this state. More than 75,000 children in 100 communities are enrolled in weekday classes, but there are still more than 50 counties in the state without classes.

Aim of the week is to acquaint the public with the existence of the weekday program and to encourage the setting up of such programs in every community. In schools where weekday classes are held, usually more than 90 per cent of the pupils are enrolled in weekday. And a large proportion of these pupils have no other connection with the church.

Theme of the week is, "For Every Child—Faith in God." In Ohio, the observance is concurrent with National Weekday Religious Education Week, proclaimed by the National Council of Churches.

Parents of children enrolled in weekday classes will be given an opportunity to see their children receiving instruction during the week. In addition, "Go To Church Sunday," April 24 will give churches an opportunity to recognize the 116 fulltime weekday teachers. In many churches, weekday teachers and pupils will participate in services. In the schools, the work of pupils will be on display and many weekday councils plan special programs.

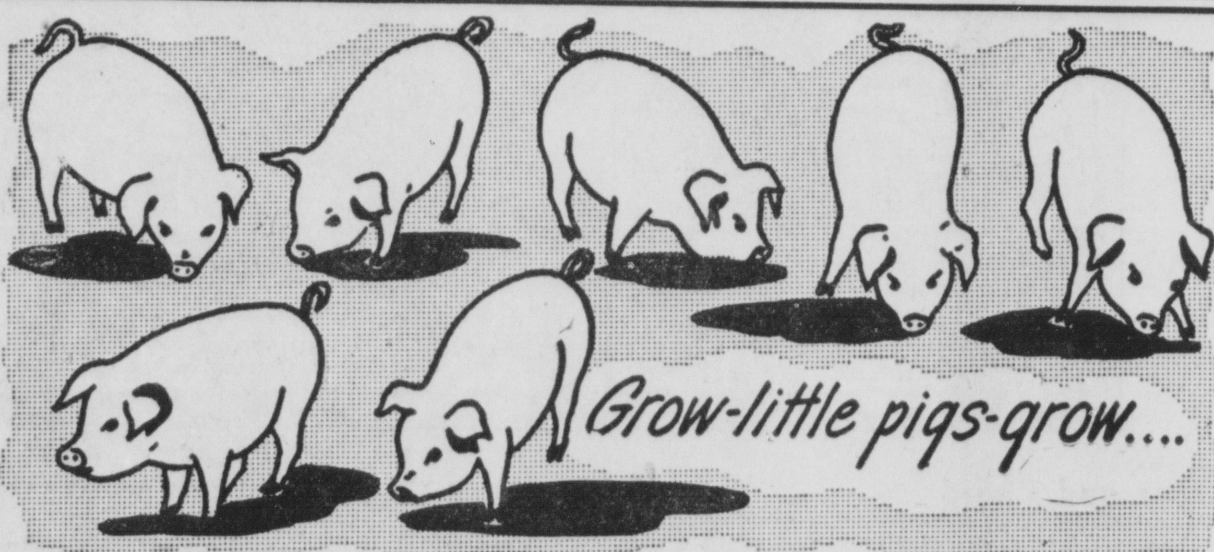

The Ohio observance is sponsored by the Ohio Council of Churches and by the Ohio Weekday Religious Education Teachers Assn. Few states have as large a weekday program as Ohio, nor as of high quality, according to Miss Lillian E. Comey, director of the Weekday Department of the Ohio

Antioch Sets Shakespeare Play Season

YELLOW SPRINGS (AP) — Director Arthur Lithgow's ambitious Shakespeare festival is proving that the old bard can still make the box office cash register jump. In 1952, when Lithgow, associate professor of English at Antioch College, first suggested a mere one-season festival of Shakespeare's plays "under the stars," few persons thought the performances would draw well enough to repay Antioch's $5,000 investment.

Now Lithgow is readying his open-air Elizabethan stage for a season of romantic fantasies. And he predicts that when the season is over the total number of persons who paid to see his Shakespeare will have jumped to 100,000.

The schedule: Merry Wives of Windsor, June 2; As You Like It, July 6; Twelfth Night, July 13; MacBeth, July 20; Cymbeline, July 27; The Winter's Tale, Aug. 3, and the Two Noble Kinsmen, Aug. 10. Grand repertoire is scheduled during the last four weeks—Aug. 15 through Sept. 11—with all seven plays being performed in each seven-day cycle.

NEW Red Rose PIG STARTER PELLETS

Creep feed these vitamin packed pellets to young pigs at 5 days of age. Your pigs will reach early weaning at 4 to 5 weeks, maintain rapid growth — and soon be on their profit way to pork chops.

RED ROSE PIG STARTER PELLETS help to grow young pigs in a hurry for this reason: they supplement the sow's milk, and supply additional vitamins and antibiotics which permit the litter to be weaned earlier without setbacks in growth. The high antibiotics and vitamin levels in RED ROSE PIG STARTER PELLETS help prevent scouring, insure against anemia and develop vigor.

Pigs fed RED ROSE PIG STARTER PELLETS grow more uniformly and reach market weights earlier. So, feed these pellets to your pigs. Remember, better pork profits come from better early feeding.

'Hurry Up' Tag Is Placed On Ohio Legislation

Ohio House Leaders Get Anxious About Mental Health Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio House leaders, with an eye on June adjournment, have pasted "hurry up" labels on a mental health program and other major legislation.

House Speaker Roger Cloud (R-Logan) said majority Republicans shortly would unveil their program for care of mental patients with a hospital building program to follow.

Cloud and Rep. Cline L. Roberts (R-Franklin), House majority leader, indicated the program included training courses to get more professional and custodial staff members at institutions.

They said mental hygiene plans were worked out in cooperation with Dr. John D. Porterfield, head of the mental health and correction department.

"In all our efforts behind the scenes," Cloud told newsmen, "we have been working with Dr. Porterfield. When we make a statement, it will be one in which Dr. Porterfield is in accord with practically all phases."

Cloud said it was necessary to compare individual institutions with standards of the American Psychiatric Assn. to work out a program.

"The question is," Cloud said, "what financial arrangements can be made in the mental health program by way of personnel. We think we have a program that is practically ready."

"On various points we are in agreement. The recommendations will be made to the Finance Committee. If we can not develop a training program and secure the proper people, the money will not be well spent."

After the Legislature wound up its 15th week of work and adjourned until Monday, Cloud said at least two major GOP policy bills will come to a floor vote in the House each week.

Linked with the announcement was disclosure of an eight-point policy program agreed to in

TREASURY SECRETARY George M. Humphrey tells the Senate public roads subcommittee in Washington that he "would not object" to an increase in the federal gasoline tax to help pay for President Eisenhower's $101 billion highway program. He said the 10-year program should be financed pay-as-you-go or by borrowing against "specific users." (International) principle by GOP House members in caucus.

The program includes proposals for health and accident insurance controls, increased workmen's and unemployment compensation benefits, comic book sale regulation, long-range capital building plans, a study of building standards, revision of state retirement systems and annual legislative sessions.

Cloud said a proposal for yearly meetings of the Legislature, instead of every two years, would be offered in the House next week.

Prospect for legislative approval of annual sessions appeared dim in view of an expression of dislike by Senate Republicans in caucus.

Cloud said another proposal yet to be considered in House caucus would call for uniform procedure by county budget commissions in distributing state revenues to local subdivisions.

The House speaker said the proposal stems from a contention that local governments need definite information on revenues they can expect to aid preparation of their budgets.

When legislators return next week, attention will focus on a bill to tighten control of illegal narcotics in Ohio. The measure, drafted after a statewide study by Ohio's attorney general, comes to a vote in the Senate Monday night.

broken any agreement with the Chinese People's Republic, with which it has no agreement.

What Dr. Kitchlew refers to is the Cairo Declaration which was made jointly with Chiang Kai-shek. Nevertheless, men may believe what they choose and this Indian chooses to believe that the United States occupies Chinese territory, namely, Formosa. Dr. Kitchlew states further:

"Just as our fight for the end to the slavery of Goa is the fight of the whole world against colonialism and for freedom, so also is the fight for the liberation of Taiwan."

It is this position against the United States that Peking sought to strengthen by capturing the islands of Quemoy and Matsu prior to the meeting of the 30 nations at Bandoeng. Chou En-lai would then have been able to come into the Conference as an all-conquering hero who defeated the United States twice and France once. Probably had he taken Quemoy and Matsu, Red China would be waging war for Formosa during the Conference and Japan would be forced to fall into Chou's lap. Perhaps that is why Admiral Robert B. Carney thought that the Red Chinese could move about April 15. It was a logical date in view of the opening of the Bandoeng Conference on April 18.

Godfrey Fires 6 From His Staff

NEW YORK (AP)—Arthur Godfrey has fired six more performers from his radio-TV shows.

In his biggest reshuffling of talent since he publicly dismissed Julius La Rosa in October, 1952, CBS announced that Godfrey had "discontinued the services" of the Mariners quartet, Marion Marlowe and Haleloke, all singers. All terminated were the services of three writers.

Grand repertoire is scheduled during the last four weeks—Aug. 15 through Sept. 11—with all seven plays being performed in each seven-day cycle.

Council of Churches, which has been instrumental in the establishment of many local weekday councils and continues to seek the setting up of others. The department also promotes adherence by local councils to certain high standards of weekday education.

Functions of the state weekday department have been outlined by Miss Comey as:

1. To uphold high standards. From its beginning the Weekday Department has encouraged and helped local systems to uphold the state and national standards for weekday religious education. It has been a source of information regarding the national weekday situation. The present high standard of weekday work in Ohio is the result of this constant emphasis on quality.

2. To help with teacher recruitment. Through correspondence and personal contact with colleges, persons who are qualified for weekday teaching are recruited and recommended to local communities for their selection.

3. To give practical help to present teachers. Most Ohio weekday teachers do not have local supervision. The state weekday department through its executive is available to observe classroom teaching and to give suggestions

Warren Not A Candidate; And He Won't Change Mind

WASHINGTON — Chief Justice Earl Warren has issued a statement saying he will not be a candidate for President of the United States and that "I will not change this decision under any circumstances or conditions."

The Supreme Court chief issued his statement following publication of a poll last Wednesday which indicated that he was first choice for the Republican nomination in 1956 if President Eisenhower decided not to run for a second term.

Warren is a former Republican governor of California. He ran for vice president in 1948 on the Republican ticket with Thomas E. Dewey, then governor of New York.

The text of Warren's statement: "My name has been used as a possible candidate for the presidency."

"This has been a matter of embarrassment to me because it reflects upon the performance of my duties as chief justice of the United States."

"When I accepted that position, it was with the fixed purpose of leaving politics permanently for service on the court. That is still my purpose. It is irrevocable. I will not change it under any circumstances or conditions."

and advice for teacher improvement.

4. To provide opportunities to teachers for professional growth. The finest leaders in religion and education have been brought into the state as resource persons for teachers' conferences and retreats. In co-operation with the Oberlin School of Theology, there is provided the best summer opportunity the country affords for graduate work study for weekday teachers. Through conferences and correspondence the department continually tries to help teachers become more effective.

5. To give guidance and encouragement to new weekday organizations. The director of the department is available to help new communities in setting up local weekday systems and to help in organizing community Councils of Weekday Religious Education.

6. To encourage and support present weekday systems. The department receives correspondence from local systems needing help with promotion, with finance, with organization, etc. Whenever possible, help is given. The director is available to help local councils interpret their task to their communities, and regularly spends considerable time in the field assisting local councils.
